Remember Who We Are

The world I know
The world I know
The world I know

The world outside keeps burning fast
Everybody is fighting for a flag to raise
Brothers turning against each other
Lost inside these modern days

But we come from people stronger
Born from oceans, stars, and faith
They crossed the dark with open hearts
Together through the waves

Remember who we are
Before the world pulled us apart
Before the noise, before the scars
We were one beneath the stars

Remember who we are
Children of the sacred blue
No matter how the world may change
The blood still runs the same in you

Now we argue over small things
Pride and ego in the way
Forgetting all the love and wisdom
That our elders tried to save

Our roots were never built on hatred
Never built on greed or fear
We come from hands that shared the table
And hearts that kept their people near

Remember who we are
Before the world pulled us apart
Before the noise, before the scars
We were one beneath the stars

Remember Who We Are

Remember who we are
Children of the sacred blue
No matter how the world may change
The blood still runs the same in you

Different islands, different stories
Different struggles, different pain
But one ocean raised us all
And one blood runs through every vein

So let the world keep chasing chaos
We'll choose another way
Stand together, move with mana
And keep the old fire lit today

Being modern doesn't mean forgetting
Being strong don't mean divide
We can walk into tomorrow
Still with culture by our side

Take the wisdom, leave the anger
Build a future from the past
If we stand as one together
Our spirit always lasts

Remember who we are
Before the world pulled us apart
Before the noise, before the scars
We were one beneath the stars

Remember who we are
Children of the sacred blue
No matter how the world may change
The blood still runs the same in you

The world may teach division
But the ocean taught us unity

Too Fast For My Soul

Morning comes
But my mind’s already running
No silence
Even before the sun

I wake up with a thousand thoughts ahead
Deadlines knocking before I leave my bed
The screen lights up, it pulls me in Another day where the noise begins

Everybody moving like they’re out of time
Chasing something they can’t define
I tie my shoes, but something’s wrong
My body moves, my soul’s not on

Too fast for my soul, I can’t keep pace
The world keeps turning, I lose my place
Every second pulls me out of control
This life’s too fast
Too fast for my soul

Too fast for my soul, I feel it deep
Running all day, but I don’t feel peace
If this is a race, I’m letting go
’Cause it’s too fast
Too fast for my soul

They tell me “go”, they tell me “rise”
But never how to quiet my mind
I see success in polished frames
But every winner looks the same

Too Fast For My Soul

I try to keep up, my chest gets tight
Like I'm losing air in broad daylight
I smile outside, but drift within
Like I'm trapped inside a life I didn't choose to live

So I slow it down
Just to breathe
And the wind feels like it's speaking to me
"No rush, no race, no need to prove"
But everything screams: "just keep moving"

I stand still while the crowd moves on Feels unfamiliar
But not wrong
For the first time, I hear my name
Not the one that the world proclaimed

I'm not there yet, but I see the line
Between their time
And what feels like mine
Maybe slowing down is where I start
To find the rhythm inside my heart

Too fast for my soul, I step aside
Let the chaos run, I choose my tide
Every heartbeat shows me the role
To slow it down
And reclaim my soul

Too fast for my soul, but now I know
I don't have to follow where they go
If life's a race, I release control
I choose my pace
I choose my soul

Roads I Didn’t Take

There’s roads I didn’t take
Paths I let fade away
Some I left too soon
Some I couldn’t stay

I still think about
Where they might’ve led me to
But I had to walk the one
That felt the most true

I’ve stood at crossroads more than once
Not knowing which way to trust
Every choice felt like a risk
Like I’d lose something either way

Tried to listen to my head
Then my heart said something else
Sometimes you don’t really know
Till you’re already somewhere else

There’s roads I didn’t take
Paths I let fade away
Some I left too soon
Some I couldn’t stay

I still think about
Where they might’ve led me to
But I had to walk the one
That felt the most true

Some people stayed behind
Some became a memory
Some chapters closed so fast
I didn’t even get to read

Roads I Didn't Take

I used to question everything
Wonder if I chose it right
Now I see not every road
Was meant to fit my life

Maybe every "no" I said
Was a "yes" I couldn't see yet
Maybe every wrong turn
Was part of where I'm set

You don't get the full map
You just move and understand
That the road you didn't choose
Was never in your hands

Now I don't look back the same
No regret, just perspective
Every path I walked away from
Still taught me something real

And if I had to do it twice
I'd probably feel the same
Cause every step I took Helped me become this man

There's roads I didn't take
And that's just how it goes
You can't walk every path
That's something everybody knows

I still think about them sometimes
But I don't stay there too long
Cause the road I'm on right now
Is exactly where I belong

Some roads are not for you
Even if they look good at first

Better Man

I don’t wake up with all the answers
Still got weight on my chest sometimes
Some days I move a little faster
Some days I just take my time

I used to think I had to prove it
Show the world who I could be
Now I’m just trying to move different
Be a better version of me

Just a better man than yesterday
One step at a time, no rush, no race
I don’t need to have it all my way
Just a little growth, a little grace

Better man than yesterday
Learning more with every mistake
Life don’t change in a single day
But I’m changing step by step

I’ve said things I wish I didn’t say
Took some roads that led nowhere
Lost some people along the way
Still feel their memory in the air

But I don’t carry it like before
I don’t let it weigh me down
I’m learning what to hold onto
And what to leave on the ground

Just a better man than yesterday
One step at a time, no rush, no race
I don’t need to have it all my way
Just a little growth, a little grace

Better Man

Better man than yesterday
Learning more with every mistake
Life don’t change in a single day
But I’m changing step by step

Maybe growth is quiet
Maybe no one sees
Maybe it’s just small decisions
That slowly set you free

No big moment, no big sign
Just a shift inside your mind

Now I breathe before I react
Think a little more before I speak
I don’t chase what I can’t control
I just focus on what I can keep

And if I fall, I stand again
That’s the only way I know
Not perfect, not even close
But I’m better than before

Just a better man than yesterday
One step at a time, no rush, no race
I don’t need to have it all my way
Just a little growth, a little grace

Better man than yesterday
That’s enough for me today
Life keeps moving anyway
So I move and I grow my way

No rush
Just growth

Time Is Teaching

I used to think I had to run
Chasing things I'd never become
Always looking somewhere else
Trying to find myself

But time don't move the way we plan
It shapes the boy into a man
Every loss and every win
Slowly change the heart within

Time is teaching me
What I couldn't see
All the things I tried to control
Were just shaping my soul

Time is teaching me
Who I'm meant to be
Step by step, day by day
Life keeps showing me the way

I've made mistakes I can't erase
Met some people I can't replace
Took some roads that led nowhere
Still I'm standing here somewhere

Now I don't rush like before
I don't knock on every door
What is meant will always stay
What is not just fades away

Time is teaching me
What I couldn't see
All the things I tried to control
Were just shaping my soul

Time Is Teaching

Time is teaching me
Who I'm meant to be
Step by step, day by day
Life keeps showing me the way

Maybe destiny ain't loud
Maybe it don't make you proud
Maybe it's just quiet days
Walking through life simple ways

Maybe being a better man
Is just doing what you can
Being kind and standing strong
And learning from what went wrong

Now I don't fear getting old
Every year worth more than gold
Lines on my face, stories to tell
Some were heaven, some were hell

If I leave something behind
I hope it's peace inside their mind
Not money, not a famous name
Just love that quietly remains

Time is teaching me
What I couldn't see
All the things I tried to control
Were just shaping my soul

Time is teaching me
Who I'm meant to be
Step by step, day by day
Life keeps showing me the way

Children Of Ocean

We are children of the ocean
Raised by the mana and waves
Different islands same blood flowing
Same ancestors same names

From Hawai'i to Tahiti
Rapa Nui Aotearoa
One people across the pacific
Still carried by moana

My roots run deeper than one shoreline
Further than the place I stand
They live in every island nation
Every gods and every strand

Our ancestors read the stars above
Crossed the sea with faith alone
Long before the world had maps
They knew the ocean like a home

We are children of the ocean
Raised by the mana and waves
Different islands same blood flowing
Same ancestors same names

Rapa Nui Aotearoa
One people across the pacific
Still carried by moana

Different tongues but same origin
Different chants but same pride
Different lands but unified
Same old spirit deep inside

Children Of Ocean

You can hear it in the instrument
See it in the way we stand
In our minds there's something ancient
Something older than the land

Te moana never divide us
Tupuna connect what others see apart
Every island is a chapter
Of the same ancestral heart

No matter where the world may take us
No matter where we choose to roam
There's mana in our spirit
And the stars still lead us home

We carry more than just a flag
More than tattoos songs or heritage
We carry thousands of years of courage
Still living beyond the age

We are children of the ocean
Raised by the mana and waves
Different islands same blood flowing
Same ancestors same names

From Hawai'i to Tahiti
Rapa Nui Aotearoa
One people across the pacific
Forever bound by moana

One ocean
One blood
One people

Salt And Summit

Yeah pick up the boys, load the boards
This is what matters

I pick my brothers up before the sun
We drive with windows down, the day’s begun
No competition, no one keeping score
Just four friends and the ocean’s roar

The water’s glassy, silence all around
Then someone laughs, it’s the sweetest sound
We’re not surfing for a trophy or fame
We’re just facing the blue, remembering why we came

Give me salt on my skin and a friend by my side
The mountain behind me, the incoming ride
I don’t need the whole world to know who I am
Just the sun on my shoulders and the earth where I’m grounded

I hike the trail where the wildflowers grow
The sweat on my back, the path my feet know
Till I reach the top and Mo’oréa appears
Floating like a dream, quieting my fears

I sit on a rock, pull my notebook out
Sometimes I write verses, sometimes I just look out
No pressure to finish, no deadline to meet
Just the view and the wind and the feeling of peace

Salt And Summit

Give me salt on my skin and a friend by my side
The mountain behind me, the incoming ride
I don’t need the whole world to know who I am
Just the sun on my shoulders and the earth where I’m grounded

This island taught me something that the world forgets
Beauty lives in the eyes of the one who reflects
And when everyone knows your face
You learn to step back
You learn your own place

Humility isn’t weakness
It’s the reef where the ego breaks
And what remains
Is real

Give me salt on my skin and a friend by my side
The mountain behind me, the incoming ride
I don’t need the whole world to know who I am
Just the sun on my shoulders and the earth where I’m grounded

Salt and summit
Salt and summit
That’s enough
That’s everything

Thank you my fenua

The world may teach division
But the ocean taught us unity
